The liquefaction of the Neapolitan saint's blood was incomplete, a black clot remained unsolved in the centre of the vaso, and was seen, says the London Tablet, with griof by thousands of the faithful, who deem it to be a sign of impending calamity.

A Canadian at Hamilton suggests a new flag for the New Dominion. He proposes the Union Jack in the corner and the rest of the bunting filled in with four colors, red, white, blue and green. On the shield it is proposed that the beaver take the place of the three lions passant, and that the maple leaf should be entwined with the rose, the shamrock and the thistle.

The French and English postal authorities have under consideration the establishment of an inter-national system of money orders between their respective countries. The idea appears to be a good one, and might probably be extended to the United States to meet the wants of emigrants who are constantly sending money to the old country. So long as the government insists on carrying the mails it may as well do it thoroughly. A Paris correspondent writes: "The American troupe of riders who have just arrived in Paris filled two steam vessels. Each one contained sufscient of men, women, children, beasts and material to form a complete company in case the other went to the bottom—a curious trait of prudence, if a little cold headed and hearted. The gigantic bills waich they have brought with them, in gigantic chromolithography, have as tonished the natives: The daily expense of the troupes are reckoned at £200."

A communication addressed to the French Institute declares that the incrustration which covered the vase lately found at Pompeii proves that the water contained in the vessel did not date from the destruction of the town, as no water contains sufficient lime and carbonate of copper to form such a deposit. The conclusion is that the water was several times renewed, and that the porous ashes, heated by the sun, permitted evaporation,

For several weeks past, by order of the Navy Department, experiments have been made on board the gunboat Paces, at the Charlestown Navy-yard, with petroleum in place of coal. These experiments were so far satisfactory that yesterday a trial was made with the Palos in Boston harbor. A large number of naval officers, engineers and scientific men were on board, and after a two hours' sail the invention was pronounced a great coss. The Palos made better time than ever before, with fewer men, and run twenty-five miles with a consumption of four barrels of petroleum.

The InternaltRevenue Bureau reports that there is now on hand 97,200 gallons of whiskey, conand forfoited to the United States, under the act passed last February-besides which about 250,000 gallons are under seizure, but have not been formally condemned. We guess that when "the Bureau" is opened, it will be found that a large shrinkage has "happened"—as with never been satisfactorily settled (on scientific principles), why "arrested" spirits are so much more volatile than when in the charge of owners! The inhabitants of Saint-Ismier, Dauphine, in France, were astonished the other morning to see the bed of the stream which traverses the village quite dry. The Labi, as it is called, takes its source on the waters of a cascade, and makes its way to the Bere, through a pretty valley adorned with to indicate the presence of treasure, and make trees. The explanation of the phenomenon appears to be that the soil at the foot of the rock from which the cascade falls is somewhat unstable, and from the constant moisture a subsidence of the soil has taken place, and the water now runs into have it safely packed in our "solace" or stuffed the ground, a considerable quantity of earth having been washed into the valley.

Last month a considerable quantity of old silver coin was found under the stump of a hazel in a wood called Lover's Copse, on the estate of Mr. H. R. SEYMOUR, near Marlborough, England. The silver pieces are about the size of a florin, and bear the following dates : 1574, 1591 and 1595. The finder took two pounds eight ounces in weight of these coins from the hole where he discovered them. So soon as his good fortune became known to his neighbors, many of them went to the copse. and, with spades, forks and axes, made a persistent search in the vicinity, when more pieces were attendance was in 1856-7, when it reached 645, 333

of whom were from Virginia, and 312 from other States. During 1862, '63, '64 and '65, the number of students in attendance was very small, for reasons that need not be stated here. Thus, in '60-1 there were 604 students, in '61-2, there were only 66; in FLORIDA.

By the Fernandina Courier we see that Florda is about to take another step forward in her onward course of civilization, and is to have a daily newspaper. The Courier announces that it has long had this step in contemplation, and procured the necessary material, but that the stringency of the times had, until now, prevented it from carrying the project into execution. At an early day, however, Florida is to have a daily paper. The publishers state that they will commence their daily with three hundred subscribers; a venturesome enterprise, but we earnestly hope that it may be successful, and that it may be followed by similar enterprises in other parts of the State.

The telegraph now penetrates and traverses large part of Florida; and quite a feat of (telegraphic) dispatch is mentioned by the papers. schieved by Dr. W. H. HEILS, General Superntendent of the International Telegraph Company, who laid 275 miles of line, all now in excellent working order, in 38} working days. The working force employed in constructing this line consisted of seventy-five picked men, all of whom, and also ten teams, were brought from New York to Punta Rosa in a vessel which ad been chartered for this express purpose This line is between Gainesville and Punta Rosa, and the line between Gainesville and Lake City has been completed more recently. The cable from Cuba to Key West, it is expected, will be laid by the first of next month; and the Western Union Telegraph Company expect to have their line finished about the same time from Savannah to Lake City, when there will be uninterrupted communication through entire Florida and to Cubs. The railroad also, from Gainesville to Lake City, is nearly finished. We take great pleasure in recording these substantial signs of progress and material growth and prosperity in our sister State. Florida has unparalleled advantages of climate and soil. She only needs population to develop her inexhaustible resources; and this she will assuredly attract, just so soon as the county is a little more settled. Florida is destined to be one of the richest agricultural States of the South, and our merchants should see to it that Charleston retains her share of Florida trade, which before the war was an important item in our commercial transactions.

THE GATHERING OF KINGS.

The Exposition unquestionably is a great uccess, and if it bring not as many people to Paris as the landlords and shop-keepers anicipated (three millions of strangers, we believe, they counted upon), the Emperor, in his most sanguine wishes, could scarcely have expected a more full realization of all his dreams of grandeur and of glory, of brilliant pomp and regal splendor, than have since came to pass for his own aggrandizement, and to the delight and profit of the vivacious, but at the same time also thrifty people of Paris. And when it is further remembered that on the very eve of this great international fete Europe was on the brink of a gigantic war, and the field of Mars, upon which the arts of peace are now being exhibited, might have become the camping ground for hostile bands of Prussian grenadiers, there is all the more reason for congratulation at the happy turn affairs have taken within the last two months. All rumors of war are hushed. Napoleon presides at the contest of the industrial arts for the mastery, and to this joust he has invited all the princes and potentates of the earth. The Queen of England sent her sons to pay their respects to Napoleon; the King and Queen of the Belgians came, the guests of His Imperial Majesty. The Czar and one of his sons did not disdain to partake of the Emperor's hospitality. The Crown Prince of Prussia came, and returned to Berlin, delighted with the regal reception accorded him. His august father, King WILLIAM, in company with Count BISMARCK came next, and has returned again to the City by the Spree. VICTOR EMAN-UEL will arrive there this week, so also the Sultan of Turkey; and most wonderful to tell, about the first of July, the Emperor of China is expected in Paris, the guest of Louis

This last is unquestionably the most remarkaole event in modern history. The Tycoon of Japan is also represented in Paris by his prother. It is reasonable, we think, to infer from this event, that the Great Wall, that hitherto kept outside barbarians both from China and Japan, will soon be levelled, never again to obstruct the onward march of civilizaion and christianity.

We have not named many of the European Sovereigns and Princes, who have visited, or are yet to visit Paris, during the present summer. Napoleon was the first monarch who ever conceived the brilliant project of assembling the crowned heads of the world around an exhibition of the triumphs of the world's industry. This is an excellent preliminary step to his other scheme of bringing about a European Congress for the adjudication of various questions of continental interest-one them a general disarmament.

Why the President of the fitted States was not invited to the Tuileries we cannot imagine. True, he could not have gone, but he might have sent some suitable representative-Gen. BUTLER, for instance, or Detective General BAKER, or some other of our distinguished men. We hope Louis has not become so much infected with aristocracy as to consider a democratic-we beg pardon, a Republican President beneath his notice.

Certainly, Napoleon has much reason to feel proud at what he has himself achieved; fifteen years ago not one of all this long list of sovereigns and princes would have passed the threshold of his red republican door, for they knew him only as the embodiment of the revolutionary idea. Now, there is not a monarch under the sun. who, whatever his private opinion and feelings may be toward the "upstart in the Tuileries." does not find it politic and even necessary to profess the utmost respect, not to say affection. for his Imperial Majesty.
